A DIGITAL COMEDY ABOUT MAKING SOMETHING WHEN YOU HAVE NOTHING

WEB SHOW LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN TO FUND BIG STORIES AT SEASON CLOSE

We're nearing the end of our first season, and we're asking for our fans--new and old--to be a part of our last two episodes through IndieGoGo! Fans previously joined this journey through two successfully funded campaigns to help us create the story of Ben Little and his friends. Each time these backers help us create a show that's bringing joy to an ever-growing fan base.

OUR GOALS

We'll be mounting our largest story on an ultra-low budget of $7,500 per episode. That'll cover a five person crew, insurance, permits, and equipment. With these funds we'll be staging a heist episode that ends in a chain reaction of mayhem. In our finale, Episode 6, we will have an extravagant sequence in Ben Little's web series, which he is premiering.

REWARDS

We're introducing some great perks for all levels. Fans can get a credit on our website for a small contribution of $5. Our best offer at $50 includes an innovative perk where cast members will create personalized Vine videos for backers. For larger contributions, backers can join us on set via Skype, get producer credits on both episodes, or even get a flight to Los Angeles for our premier party ($2,000 level.)

GUEST STARS

During our campaign we'll be releasing the names of guest stars who share fandoms with Buffering. Episodes 5 & 6 will feature four new guest stars in the roles of a charismatic agent, a nerdy production designer, and Ben Little's upstairs neighbors. More to come as things develop!

BUFFERING'S PLOT

Buffering... is the story of Ben Little (Curt Mega), a guy who fell from being kinda famous to unbearably a nobody. To prove that he's still talented, he'll do what every ambitious actor does: make a web series. It's not easy making a web series, especially when you're broke, depressed, and uninspired. Luckily, he has some dysfunctional friends to ruin his flimsy plan. Our story is about a few people doing the best they can to put something together if only they can come together. Until then, everything's buffering...
